Profile

Kathleen P. Longeway, PhD., is a child psychologist who takes a cognitive-behavioral and family approach to working with children and teens. She believes that therapy works best when it is coordinated with the child's family, school and referring physician. Dr. Longway offers 14 years experience as a child psychologist and additional experience in school psychology. Prior to joining the Behavioral Health Clinic at Sinai Samaritan Medical Center, she served as a staff psychologist at Children's Hospital of Wisconsin. Dr. Longway earned her bachelor's degree in psychology from the University of Vermont – Burlington, her master's degree in experimental psychology from Cornell University and doctorate in clinical from the University of Wisconsin – Milwaukee. She is certified by the National Register of Health Service Providers in Psychology.
