Objective

The objective of this series is to provide additional information about behavioral health issues that may impact nurses, social workers, counselors, psychologists and educators in the schools. It is intended to help school professionals better understand the etiology of behavioral health illnesses, as well as treatment alternatives and strategies for coping with these problems.

Intended audience

This program is designed for nurses, school social workers, school psychologists, guidance counselors and educators who deal with behavioral health issues in the school setting.

Conferences held Tuesdays from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m.
